“What, however, can the man of good will do to combat this deeply rooted prejudice? He must have the courage to set an example by word and deed, and must watch lest his children become influenced by this racial bias.

I do not believe there is a way in which this deeply entrenched evil can be quickly healed. But until this goal is reached there is no greater satisfaction for a just and well-meaning person than the knowledge that he has devoted his best energies to the service of the good cause.”

Comments on Sixth Query, Equality (read at Meeting for Worship)

Quaker meeting concentrates our thoughts on this topic, but, the speaker noted, we may not fully understand this issue. Being concentrated on a topic may lead the Meeting to focus and take action.

Carriage Shed Sale Final Report – presented by Cynthia Quast Accepted

We appreciate all the work of the Members who made the Carriage Shed Sale a successful event. We had a solid team of volunteers who really pitched in and brought new ideas and energy. We had a great time sharing our Carriage Shed/Tag Sale event with the Asbury Methodist work and want to thank everyone for helping us to successfully make our goal $5,574.76 which was split between the 2 organizations to provide for renovation of stained glass windows and construction of an access ramp. It was a great accomplishment and we enjoyed the community fellowship that was created. Deb Danser is responsible for reinventing our official sign which is portable and reusable. She also organized the sale of flowers and plants this year which was well received in addition to Lorraine Claggett's garden offerings. Dottie and Norm baked up a storm and supplied our bake sale with help from Asbury members. We had great supervision with sorting and pricing from veteran past Chair's Beth Mufson and Marsie Hawkinson who organized many volunteers to pull it all together in time for our Members Sale Friday evening; movers and shakers Ralph Young, John Schreiner and Rob Wieland kept all the big pieces in play; Bill and Susan jumped in to organize the Silent Auction and priced bids for numerous wonderful treasures; Winslow and Helen are now Master Quaker Dog providers; and Mary Yancey did a yeomen's job in helping us clean up. We had the most abundant stock of wonderful donations we have ever had and the Asbury Methodist came with an army of volunteers to help us on Saturday morning. Thanks to all who donated, worked, purchased items, and took it all away again!

First Day School Annual Report - Cathy Thompson presenting for Susan Claggett-Accepted with thanks

First Day School Annual report June 12, 2016

Third Haven First Day School completed another year of offering weekly religious education for the Meetings' children and youth visitors. FDS followed three main curricula for the year. Teachers often used these lessons as guidelines as well as inspirations for them to teach from their heart. In the Fall, we taught the curriculum from Philadelphia Yearly Meeting entitled, "As the Way Opens" which has 5 lengthy chapters. Chapter 1 is called, "Hearing the Call" and a later chapter is headed, "Journeys." During the winter months, FDS followed the curriculum called, "Peaceable Kingdom" using examples from our Peace Testimony. Finally, FDS finished up the year with lesson plans from a curriculum, "What is God?" The children were able to look for God in nature, in others and in their selves. FDS also held monthly Godly Play or Faith and Play storytelling. Most of these stories were told by FDS committee member, Cathy Thompson. Some of the titles of these unique stories told this year were "The Mary Fisher Story", "Living the Wonderful Ways of Love" and "Living the Ways of the Spirit." The FDS also created the holiday wreaths that adorn our Meeting House doors during the holiday months. Finally, as a way to get our message out, FDS would like to thank the Communications committee for diligently sending out timely messages all year to the wider Meeting from our committee.

First Day School holds three large family gatherings every year where the children are present and active. These events are the annual Christmas program held this year on Dec. 20. During this program this year, FDS welcomed new baby Riley Jane Ewing, born in Nov to Amy Owsley and Ryan Ewing. The second larger gathering of the year is our annual Easter Egg hunt on the Meeting grounds. This year held in March. And finally, FDS continues its tradition of honoring graduates in our FD School during a ceremony called "Moving Up." This year's ceremony will be held on June 26 at the rise of Meeting. Four young graduates will be honored. They are Nathan Mullen, graduating from Westtown. Lucy Bond graduating from Easton High School. And two Neil children, Juliette, graduating from St Andrews School and heading to Yale. And Nora Neil who graduated from Georgetown University and is working in Venice this summer. During this special Moving Up celebration, the Meeting members often get to hear from the graduates themselves as they are honored and given a small gift from First Day School.

Back to the children currently present in FDS . First Day School has seven committed families that attend Meeting. Attendance does vary week to week with some Sundays having 2 or 3 children followed by the next week with 5 or 6 children. These families are committed to Quaker values. The current FDS children include Riley, Finley and Liam Ewing, Ember and Finn Theeke, Maeve Mufson, Giuseppe Colburn, Beck and Anya Eshram, Serena Claggett and one of our newest and youngest attenders, Annabelle Lane. The parents care very deeply about FDS and often help with the Sunday lessons. Most of the work and organization that keeps FDS going all year long is done by the terrific FDS committee members. These committee members are: Cathy Thompson, Amy Owsley, Katie Theeke, Mark Beck, Beth Mufson, Sally Claggett, Dawn Atwater, Catherine Cripps and Clerk, Susan Claggett. Third Haven FDS also hosts a variety of youth visitors through out the year, whether they are grandchildren or relatives of a Meeting member or friends of the FDS children, our First Day School is always a welcoming and warm, safe space to learn a little about our Quaker spirit.

Respectfully Submitted, Susan Claggett, First Day School Clerk

September 11 (Sunday)

Meeting for worship followed by meeting for business.

Dawn Atwater writes, “I would like to put an alert in the announcement to ask for volunteers – one from each committee --who would be willing to be trained on the use our projector and how to connect it to a computer in the common room where there is no connections. It is important that each committee have a designated person who can comfortably make use of our equipment. Once we get designated people together we will provide a training course. It is not difficult but a training session would give access to the entire meeting. Call Dawn Atwater to let her know each committee’s selection. She will put together the time and place.” 410-745-5409 or dawnatwater1@gmail.com

We invite you to ask one family that you know who might like to get to know us better here at Third Haven. We plan to have a special First Day School program that day (10am) for families who would like to come to Meeting.

This picnic is sponsored by the Outreach and Overseers Committees and we invite all Third Haven Friends to join us and to invite others. Hearing Vocal Ministry

On the Topic of Hearing Vocal Ministry in Meeting for Worship

In our meetinghouses, sometimes the voices of those called to give vocal ministry during meeting for worship can be lost. When one is responding to the Spirit, seeking words to articulate the message, perhaps even little conscious of how one came to rise to address the meeting, the spiritual experience and message often takes precedence over its form. It is also fair to say that a number of our members and attenders have age related hearing loss. With these things in mind, how can those called to vocal ministry assist those who have difficulty hearing? And, how can those who are listening and but having difficulty hearing gain what benefit they can from vocal ministry during the meeting for worship?

For those giving vocal ministry: Trust that you've discerned that the message you have been given is for the meeting and that it is valuable to each person there. If you have considered and pondered if the Spirit is not speaking to you alone, be confident that the words are meant to be heard by others. You are giving the meeting the gift that has been given to you to share. Take a deep breath, lift up your head, and speak toward the people in the meeting. . If you can remember to do it, speak as loudly as you comfortably can.

For those hearing vocal ministry: You are in a difficult situation, with the acoustics of buildings and hearing losses typically affecting consonant speech sounds and higher pitched women's voices. There are a few things you can try that may help. One suggestion is to sit toward the center of the meeting, in the middle of the people who are assembled. When people speak, they often address their comments toward the center of the room. If you are facing the people that will help, and, if the voice comes from behind you, turn toward the speaker if you can comfortably do so. Another suggestion is to ask someone in meeting to talk with you about the vocal ministry at the rise of meeting.

Finally, when meeting is over, consider approaching the minister to talk about the message. It will likely be close to their minds and hearts, having spent much time discerning the message and the Spirit's intent and direction. Not only can you discuss the parts of the message that you missed, you can gain deeper insights and help build community through these interactions. It is often reassuring for vocal ministers to have someone express their desire to hear and understand the given message.

In "Members of One Another," Thomas Gates writes: "A true community comes to understand and value the diversity of its members and is able to both accept and transcend those differences." In the dynamic of speaking and listening, each of us can contribute to the experience of meeting for worship by sitting together, accepting our limitations and our gifts, and being mindful of each other's experiences in meeting for worship.
